Road is a 'disgrace' – but who will repair it?

DEBRA FOX

MYSTERY still surrounds who owns – and is therefore responsible for – a pothole-ridden road in Haverhill.

Part of Quakers Lane, which is in the town centre, is owned by Suffolk County Council – but, as previously reported, the section leading from the town's ex-servicemen's club to Mill Road and Recreation Road appears to have no owner.

A spokeswoman for the Land Registry said that Quakers Lane has never been registered with them.

The county council has previously said it could, theoretically, adopt the road – but only after an application is filed by the registered land owner, and after the road is brought up to an "adoptable" standard.

Until this happens, they can take no further action, a spokesman said.

Christopher Gurteen, who has worked at his family's business in Chantry Mills in the town since the 1950s, says he has campaigned for years to get someone to admit ownership of the road.

But because it is in such terrible condition, he says no one will.

"This rears its head so often," he said. "Every time there is a new mayor or councillor or MP I do my best to walk them along the road and show them what a disgrace it is to have in the centre of Haverhill.

"Nobody seems to own it, and nobody seems to want to do anything about it – it's considered to be an 'unadopted' road."

Eight homes on Helions Park

Avenue back on to Quakers Lane. Residents living there told the Weekly News this week they are "disgusted" that the road has been left this way for so long.

Michael Banner moved into the street in 1992 with his wife Joanne. Shortly afterwards, he said they were forced to fence off their garage, which is accessible from Quakers Lane, because their car was getting damaged driving along the road.

The couple have since had their front garden paved to allow them to park their cars on it instead.

Michael, 48, said: "For 20 years we have had trouble with it time and time again – and they keep telling us time and time again that it is unadopted."

"We have given up using it – we couldn't even put our car in our garage because the bottom of the car was getting ripped off by the potholes."

Steve Russell, secretary at Haverhill Ex-Servicemen's Club, said the condition of the road is so bad that taxis will no longer collect or drop off members at the club.

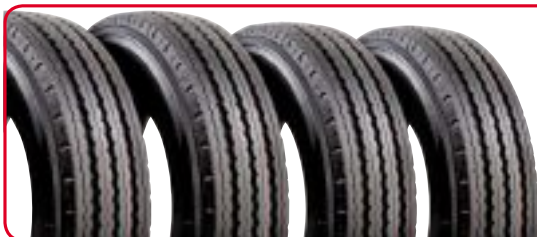

Members have also been injured when walking along the road because of the potholes, he said.

Cllr Maureen Byrne, deputy mayor and ward member for Haverhill South, has branded the road a "death trap".

"This road has been deteriorating for several years – but just because the county council doesn't own it, doesn't mean they shouldn't do something about it," she said.

"If there was a serious accident or fatality on the roads in Haverhill due to the current situation, they would be done immediately."

"I am urging Suffolk County Council to please make the highways of Haverhill a priority."

On your marks for town's first races

DEBRA FOX

HISTORY will be made on Sunday as the whistle sounds to start Haverhill's inaugural races.

Hundreds of runners will line up on the Recreation Ground to take part in the town's first ever half marathon and 10k.

The races, organised by Jack Tappin, are set to become an annual event for the town.

Mr Tappin said: "I always knew Haverhill had a vibrant running scene and it has been pleasing to see how well the race has been supported, particularly in the town, by running club members but also from across the region."

Participants in the 10k will get on their marks at 9.30am, spurred on by Matthew Hancock, MP for West Suffolk, who will start the race, with half-marathon runners setting off shortly afterwards.

The half marathon will be started by Cllr Roger André, mayor of Haverhill, as Mr Hancock will be taking ing part in the half-marathon himself.

Half marathon runners will travel out to Withersfield and Great Wratting before returning to the town, heading along the railway line and through Sturmer before returning through the Chalkstone Estate.

The 10k heads back from the railway line along Ehringshausen Way.

Both races will finish by crossing the Market Square and heading back to the Recreation Ground.

All finishers will get a medal and a goody bag.

Entry for the Haverhill is £18 on the day, and the Haver10 is £14.

The events are raising money for St Nicholas Hospice Care, and have almost 350 entries.

A documentary on the race will also be shown at Haverhill Arts Festival in June.

Non-runner Debra Fox gets off the sofa & in training for Haverhill's inaugural 10K

ALL things considered I've come a pretty long way.

Week one (I'm sure you all remember it as well as me) I couldn't even manage two minutes of light jogging.

Now we've reached week eight and I can hold my head up and say with pride that, if nothing else, I've improved.

I've tackled near enough 10k, and lived to tell the tale - a feat I never thought was possible.

Don't expect me to come sprinting over the finish line in the style of Usain Bolt, though.

I've got better by my standards, but in general running terms I'm still pretty poor. I must say a special thanks to Lee at Real Bodies - though I have hated you for every second of my planks (which I still can't do), the other core exercises have definitely helped build up my stamina and improve my time.

If I'm being totally honest there's still a small part of me thinking I might collapse before the finish line - but I'll be able to claw my way along the ground to the end, at least.

I'm already thinking about my next challenge ... but safe to say, it won't be one where running is involved.

Look out for me at the start line - see you there!

Let me know how you get on with your race, email debra.fox@cambridge-news.co.uk

£500 reward offered after UKIP signs stolen from land

A COUNCILLOR is offering a £500 reward from his own pocket after election signage for his party was stolen.

Cllr Tony Brown, a member of UKIP, is offering the money to anyone who can help with a conviction for the theft of two boards promoting the party.

The boards, put up ahead of the European elections on May 22, were taken from land at Hanchett House, Haverhill.

Dudley Haylock, owner of the land, said he agreed for the signs to be put up after another UKIP councillor asked his permission.

He noticed they were gone on Tuesday morning. "I feel violated," he said, "and I think it's very childish."

Cllr Brown has branded

STOLEN: Dudley Haylock and Cllr Tony Brown.

the theft a "disgrace". "It is part of the democratic process in this country during election times, especially important elections like this, that parties get their signs out and are allowed to publicise their campaigns," he said.

is against the democratic process which people in this country fought hard for over the years." A spokesman for Suffolk Police confirmed that they are aware of the incident, and that the signs went missing sometimes between 5pm on Monday and 7am on Tuesday.

Show raises £750 in Rita's memory

A SHOW bringing back the sounds of the 1950s and 60s has raised £750 for a hospice charity.

The show, organised by Colin Bateman, featured tributes to Billy Fury, Dusty Springfield, Helen Shapiro and Bobby Dee.

It was held in memory of his wife Rita Bateman, who died of cancer in March last year. More than 200 people attended the show, on April 12 at Haverhill Arts Centre. A raffle also took place on the night.

Now, the £750 raised is being donated to Arthur Rank Hospice Charity, in Cambridge.

Pupils launch campaign to get dog owners to clean up

DEBRA FOX

SCHOOL pupils who are fed up with dog poo on the streets in their community are launching their own campaign to encourage dog owners to clean up.

A group of classmates from Samuel Ward Academy, in Haverhill, have written to Mark Bee, Suffolk County Council leader, with their concerns about dog fouling in the local area, a problem which was also highlighted in the Weekly News in the last few weeks.

The students feel so passionately that the school will now take an active role in trying to stop dog owners from shirking their responsibilities by designing their own signs.

Dawn Burford, head of Key Stage 3 leadership skills, said students were tasked with writing about local issues in a recent citizenship class.

Year 8 pupils Casey, Charlotte, Georgia and Lisa have written asking for the council to provide more dog bins, with bags available, and asked for more signage outlining the consequences of not clearing up.

In the letter the girls said: "This problem makes our town look unhygienic and it makes it look like we don't care about our environment, when we do care."

Cllr Bee replied to the pupils, outlining provision for dog mess currently in Haverhill, and directed the youngsters towards the borough council, the responsible authority for the issue.

As previously reported in the Weekly News, there are 70 designated dog bins around the town and a further 208 bins where walkers can dispose of their dog mess.

A Big Scoop campaign was launched across St Edmundsbury last June, with bright red "clean it up" stencils sprayed across pavements in fouling hot spots.

Pupils from Samuel Ward will be designing signs, warning dog owners that they need to clean up.

Ms Burford added: "This proves that citizenship is real, and that it's important that students are listened to."

"They are really trying to do things to make a difference."

A chosen few designs, voted for by the school forum, will then be sent on to the borough council for consideration.

These will be laminated, and put up around Haverhill by enforcement officers, the council said.

Concerns were raised last month by Cllr Tony Brown, representing Haverhill East and Kedington, about the town's green spaces being destroyed by a "minority" of dog walkers who fail to clean up.

He said: "I think it's really good for Samuel Ward to get involved."

"It's the right time of year now, because everyone wants to be getting out to enjoy Haverhill's green spaces. Anything that brings the problem of irresponsible dog owners into the public domain."

Cllr Brown identified one of the "hot spots" to be School Lane – the same area raised by Samuel Ward pupils in their letter.

Cllr Peter Stevens, cabinet member for environment, said:

"Haverhill should be proud of these young people, who are taking the initiative and doing something about a problem they have recognised in their town."

"I am very pleased to support them."

"Our officers have followed up their letter and I look forward to reporting the actions we take together."

Milestone for county transport service

A COMMUNITY bus link has now transported more than 500 passengers – but more are being encouraged to try the service.

The Suffolk Links 3 Towns service provides buses for those who find it difficult to access other forms of transport in Bury St Edmunds, Haverhill and Newmarket.

The service is managed by The Voluntary Network, and is open to all members of the public.

Caroline Robinson, manager at The Voluntary Network, said: "The Links service allows people to link up with other bus and train services, as well as providing a way of getting to amenities such as shopping facilities, hospitals and leisure centres."

Services are available from Monday to Saturday, between 7am and 7pm. Bookings can be made from Monday to Friday, between 10am and 4pm. Call 01638 664304.

Have your say on spending £200k

RESIDENTS living in the south of Haverhill are being invited to share their ideas on improving the community.

Community Action Suffolk is hosting a meeting on May 14 at the Leiston Centre to discuss how a £200,000 investment in the area could be spent.

The organisation is looking for between nine and 12 volunteers to create a People's Forum. This forum will take feedback and create a plan on how the community thinks the money should be sent.

The meeting is running from 6.30pm.

'Innovation centre' plans move forward

PLANS to build a business hub at Haverhill Research Park have taken a step forward.

Permission for the innovation centre is expected to be decided on towards the end of this month – but Carisbrooke Developments has plans to launch a "virtual" centre in the meantime.

Businesses taking advantage of the virtual offer will be able to use the new innovation centre and address, if built, and have access to a domain name.

They will also get post handling, and be able to use conference and meeting spaces at Days Inn Haverhill, which has free WiFi, for a reduced rate.

The Research Park has also become a member of the United Kingdom Business Incubation – the leading organisation for those involved in enterprise, innovation and growth.

To sign up for the virtual hub, contact Helen Chaplin, park manager, on 07584232339 or email helen@haverhillresearchpark.com

Rugby club fun day

UNFAIR: Mark and Nicola Turley and Tina Henderson outside the garages in Norton Road.

You'll be offered another garage, residents told

RESIDENTS whose garages could be demolished to make way for affordable housing will be offered another garage elsewhere on the estate.

Those living on the Clements Estate, Haverhill, got a chance to talk to representatives from Havebury Housing Partnership yesterday over their plans to demolish garages to make way for housing.

The plans involve four garage blocks on the Clements, and one in Cambridge Way, to the north of the town. Havebury propose that maisonettes, flats and houses will be built on Ladygate, Nayland Road, Norton Road and Orford Road and existing garage blocks will be demolished.

A consultation took place at Haverhill Arts Centre yesterday over the plans – with staff from Havebury on hand to deal with residents' concerns.

Jane Duffy, customer advisor for Havebury, was assisting residents with alternative garage accommodation.

There are around 90 "void" garages on the Clements Estate which can be used by residents who are losing their existing ones, she said.

"These garages are available for rent," Mrs Duffy said. "We will give preference to those people coming out of the garage sites.

"We will prioritise another garage as close as possible."

Scott Bailey, Havebury's head of development, said there was as little as 50 per cent occupancy over some of the garage sites, and that's why they were chosen.

"If there is a garage plot, and they are not all in use, it is not the best use of that piece of land," he said.

But Mark and Nicola Turley, who live on Parkside, were angry after the consultation.

They rent two garages from Havebury. They will also lose two parking spaces in front of these garages if the plans go ahead.

Mark works in an on-call position, and needs to be able to get to his car quickly.

"It's an absolute joke," he said.

"The people from Havebury had no idea of the issues surrounding the areas that they have proposed for development."

Tina Henderson, also of Parkside, has branded the reallocation of garages as "underhand".

She said: "It seems like they were just hoping by the end of the day that all of the garages would be empty, and that would give them a complete lottery to go ahead and do it.

"People don't want to be walking across the Clements late at night to go to and from their car, especially when the streetlights go off after midnight."

Concerns have also been expressed over the close proximity of the proposed developments to existing homes, the effect on the "character" of the community and the effect on amenities.

Following the consultation, Paul Edwards, director of resources at Havebury, said: "We will take into account the comments made, and continue to work with the borough council throughout the planning process to achieve the best outcome for us, the local community and people who are in need of homes."

To view the full plans, visit stedmundsbury.gov.uk.

Christian charity's gifts for primary school

BOOKS, films and encyclopedias have been gifted to a school to help with their religious education.

Students at Westfield Primary Academy, Haverhill, were presented with the resources in a special assembly before Easter.

The gift was given as part of the "Operation Nehemiah" initiative, sponsored by the Barnabus Trust, a Christian charity.

David Whiffen, of the Downs Baptist Church, visited the school and presented the materials, which look at the key teachings of Jesus, to the children.

He also told Bible stories to entertain the children, who are looking forward to his next assembly and visit.

You're not alone

THIS week is Multiple Sclerosis (MS) Awareness Week. Did your readers know that this disabling neurological disease is most commonly diagnosed in young people aged 20-30? And that it affects more than 100,000 people in the UK alone?

But while the outward signs of this disease may be clear to see, what we don't see are the emotional effects that MS can have, which can leave those affected and their families feeling isolated and depressed.

I work for Vitalise, an amazing charity that runs the Jubilee Lodge centre in Chigwell.

We understand the importance of being able to get away from the stresses of daily life, if only for a short while.

Jubilee Lodge provides a respite lifeline for people with many different disabilities and their carers, enabling them to restore their strength and face life's daily challenges with renewed hope.

While at present there remains no cure for MS - or even a proper idea of what causes it - Vitalise has a solution for those who may be feeling the strain. It's very simple: take a break with us, relax - and remember you're not alone!

We simply wouldn't be able to continue giving our guests the breaks they so desperately need without the help of our wonderful supporters, whose generosity enables us to turn the hope of a break into a reality. To find out more about our breaks or ways to support us, please visit: www.vitalise.org.uk, or call us on 0303 303 0147.

Get grilling . . .

I AM writing to invite your readers to get their grill on to support people with epilepsy and take part in the first ever Epilepsy Action Big BBQ, from 9-15 June.

Statistics show that the average British family will have nine barbecues a year. Why not use one of yours to help people with epilepsy?

Your Pictures

Clare Reeve, from Haverhill, sent us this photo. "I took this photo in Wandlebury Country Park, a lovely place in the Springtime. "I was very fortunate to snap the sheep and lamb standing together looking at me like this. It was a rather special moment."

■ We love to see your photos. You can email them to: wendy.davey@cambridge-news.co.uk

Whether it's a barbecue with friends and family; a grill up at the local sports club; or an American style cookout with your local community group, all you need to do is get grilling and get giving.

Every year, around 32,000 people are diagnosed with epilepsy, that's 87 every single day. All the money raised from this event will help us to continue our vital work in supporting the 600,000 people with epilepsy across the UK. It is estimated that around 57,000 people in the East of England have epilepsy.

Everyone who registers to hold a Big BBQ event will receive a grill-tastic fundraising toolkit. It contains a collection box, invitations, posters, recipe cards and even a branded chef hat for the king or queen of the barbie.

The Epilepsy Action Big BBQ is being supported by Napoleon® Grills. Every Big BBQ chef will have the chance to win one of ten Napoleon® Grills BBQ accessory packs, each worth £65.

To register for a free Big BBQ fundraising pack, visit epilepsy.org.uk/bigbbq or call the fundraising events team on 0113 210 8800.

New safety vests given to police for outings

TWENTY high visibility vests have been donated to Haverhill Police.

The vests have been gifted by Specsavers, on Haverhill High Street, for use when officers organise engagements with local school children.

Recently, officers carried out road safety checks on Wrattling Road, Haverhill, with young people from the town.

PCSO Mark Isaac carries out a variety of operations and engagements with young people in Haverhill, including walking children to the bus station or library.

He said: "The jackets are going to be a great help for all of the team when doing engagements with young people."

"We can bang the road safety drum at a nice early age, and it will hopefully stick with them as they go through school years."

Samuel Ward to become teacher training centre

DEBRA FOX

AN OUTSTANDING academy will take on a new role as a teaching school.

Samuel Ward Academy, on Chalkstone Way, is one of only 200 schools across the country to be granted this status in the latest intake.

The new role means that the academy will recruit and train teachers, as well as providing support to other schools.

All chosen schools must be rated outstanding by Ofsted and work with partner schools to provide teacher training.

Howard Lay, executive principal at Samuel Ward, hailed the opportunity as a chance to "transform" education across the local area.

He said: "Haverhill will be on the national educational map. Samuel Ward will be at the centre of an educational movement involving ten primary schools in and around Haverhill, two special schools and three secondary schools in three geographical clusters – Haverhill, Great Cornard and Newmarket."

Samuel Ward's partners include Anglia Ruskin University, West Suffolk College and Suffolk County Council.

teachers have been identified for the coming academic year, and will be placed in schools across the teaching alliance.

The aim of the training is to create a group of outstanding-rated teachers who will continue to benefit partnership schools in future.

The academy was chosen by the National College for Teaching and Leadership (NCTL).

Charlie Taylor, chief executive of NCTL, said: "Samuel Ward Academy should be very proud of their teaching school status."

"It recognises the school's outstanding performance and its track record of raising standards through supporting other schools."

The Samuel Ward Schools partnership, formed in 2011, includes primary schools in and around Haverhill. The academy also sponsors Newmarket College.

Saving lives, for 42 years

Suffolk Accident and Rescue Service (SARS) is celebrating its 42nd anniversary. NATALIE ROBINSON talks to the longest serving volunteer medic, Dr Andy Mason

A VITAL charity in Suffolk has celebrated 42 years of saving lives this week.

The Suffolk Accident Rescue Service (SARS) was launched on May 1, 1972, and has attended almost 16,000 medical emergencies round Suffolk and surrounding counties in the 42 years since.

And Dr Andrew Mason also joined the anniversary celebrations last week, currently holding the crown for the charity's longest serving volunteer.

Dr Mason, who has been working with SARS since 1974, said: "SARS has seen a lot of changes since it was set up back in the 1970s and the standard of prehospital care in our region has improved immensely since then.

"Although we now have a smaller number of volunteers, the level of patient care provided is much higher. "Our volunteers are highly-trained specialists who can sedate patients, administer powerful painkilling drugs and undertake advanced life-saving procedures before patients reach hospital."

Doctors and paramedics at the charity provide emergency care for patients with serious or life-threatening conditions before they are transferred to hospital.

In the last 42 years, SARS have provided medical cover for royal visitors who were travelling by helicopter in the 1970s and attended a coach crash in Ipswich where a coach of 38 passengers overturned on the A12.

In the 1990s, the charity became the largest immediate care charity in the country, with 170 doctors volunteering. Volunteer paramedics were also welcomed into their ranks in 2011.

Now the charity is hoping to raise cash to fund a brand new vehicle, after the need for its service was highlighted in 2013 when they were sent to six different incidents in three separate counties with seven different volunteers within 24 hours.

Dr Mason added: "This year, we are hoping to raise enough money to fund a new emergency team response vehicle kitted out with a wide range of specialist life saving equipment, much of which was unavailable 42 years ago."

Little ones learn to get cooking

CHILDREN tried their hand at pizza making at a cooking event at a Haverhill school.

Pupils at Coupsals Primary School prepared, cooked and ate more than 100 pizzas as part of a Big Cookathon held last month.

Staff from Tesco and Sainsbury's donated ingredients to the project, and helped out on the day.

Other visitors included representatives from the emergency services, Haverhill Rovers, Thule and Cllr Roger André, town mayor.

The children also had a go at making Domino's and Pappalino pizzas after demonstrations from the professionals.

An estimated 350 children and adults have taken part in the project so far, with pupils asking their friends, relatives and neighbours to join in with making "Easy Peasy Pizza".

The initiative was organised by Sandra Linnane, Let's Get Cooking Co-ordinator.

She said: "There are too many people to thank personally but without Coupsals Primary School and Haverhill's community spirit this event would not take place and would not be so successful, so thank you one and all.

"We couldn't have wished for a better day that had the local and wider community working together and having such fun."

Town sees a drop in crime figures

CRIME figures for Haverhill have dropped, according to police figures.

At a full council meeting last week, Inspector Peter Ferrie revealed the number of recorded crimes which took place in the town since April 1 this year, and compared them to a three-year average.

He said: "The total number of recorded crimes in Haverhill town is 128, compared to a three year average of 143."

Acquisitive crime is currently at 38 recorded offences, as opposed to the three year average of 68.

There have been four recorded incidents of vehicle crime in the last month, compared to the average of 20 and anti-social behaviour figures are down from 111 to 66.

Inspector Ferrie said the only two types of crime have risen are domestic burglaries, and drugs offences.

Working to tackle drugs crime has formed part of the Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team's (SNT) priorities for this quarter.

Their proactive work, Inspector Ferrie added, has led to the rise in the number of recorded offences.

Nursery welcomes visitors from Romania

AN OUTSTANDING nursery played host to teachers from Romania last week.

Blois Meadow Day Nursery, in Steeple Bumpstead, welcomed the teachers from Acorns British Style Nursery in Bucharest, who were visiting to get a flavour of UK nursery education.

The guests met with children, parents and staff at the nursery, and learned more about practice and training.

Acorn was set up 10 years ago, and now has two nurseries and a training centre.

Fiona Dutu, Acorns' headteacher, said: "We chose to visit Blois Meadow because of its outstanding Ofsted report and its reputation. It was an inspirational day and we have come away with lots of ideas."

Alison Midgley, owner and manager at Blois Meadow, said: "We hope that the visit may lead to a future exchange programme between Blois Meadow and Acorns, which will broaden staff horizons and enable them to share ideas."

Fancy running a market stall?

DEBRA FOX

BUDDING entrepreneurs are going to put their sales skills to the test.

Haverhill is preparing for its first ever youth market, taking place as part of national campaign, Love Your Local Market week.

Traders aged between 16 and 24 are being invited to man a free stall and test out their business ideas on the public.

The event is on May 17.

Sharon Fairweather, market development officer for West Suffolk, said: "It's not too late to sign up for a free stall on the market. It's an ideal opportunity for anyone with a business idea to test their venture, without expensive overheads.

OPPORTUNITY: Sharon Fairweather, market development officer for West Suffolk

"The stalls are free and people can sell anything – something they've made, a service they're promoting or things they've bought to sell on. The stall judged the best will be offered a free pitch for three months to really see if their idea could be a success."

Those signed up already include

Charlie Cook, of Haverhill, showcasing his range of homemade cushions, and a stall for herbs, spices and recipe books.

It is hoped that the promotion will help youngsters get their business off the ground, and get them more involved in market life.

Ms Fairweather added: "There has been a market in Haverhill since before William the Conqueror and some of the biggest business names began as market stalls, including Marks and Spencer, Matalan and Tesco."

Love Your Local Market will run from May 16 until May 24.

Happy 30th birthday, St Nicholas Hospice Care

A SPECIAL service has taken place to celebrate 30 years of St Nicholas Hospice Care.

On May 1, 1984, the Hospice's first nurse started caring for patients. Since then, the charity grew and now employs around 150 employees, 650 volunteers and supports more than 2,500 families.

A celebration, attended by more than 70 people, was held at the main hospice in Bury St Edmunds last week, led by Canon Richard Norburn, hospice president.

He said: "We've looked back on the last 30 years with thanks and now we look forward with hope and confidence."

Readings were given by staff, supporters and Barbara Gale, chief executive.

As previously reported, the hospice's new outreach centre in Haverhill will open on May 31.

The centre, on Camps Road, will provide a range of services and therapies for patients – but there will not be any beds for inpatients.

MILESTONE: Roger Whomes, Rita Munns, Pippa Wilding and Malcolm Leith.

Why I had to change my life

FAYE Donnelly positively exudes energy. Slim, athletic and with a wide smile never far from her face, the bubbly mother-of-one can't hide her happiness: her personal training business is booming, and she's busy planning her wedding to her partner, Will, in just three months.

But a photograph from five years ago tells a different story. Five-and-a-half stone heavier and wearing baggy clothes, Faye is almost unrecognisable. And it was this very picture that inspired her to change her life.

"I look hideous," says Faye with a wince. "I had no make-up, I was just in my glasses; I had cold sores all over my lips because I was so run down, and not drinking enough water. I was obviously depressed."

"I just looked at that picture and thought 'Oh my goodness, what has happened?' And that's what made me think 'Right, now's the time to sort this out.'"

The years leading up to that photograph had been tough on the 30-year-old. Originally from a close-knit Pakistani community in Luton, Faye, the middle of seven children, grew up in a strict Muslim family – and fell out of favour when she started dating an Irishman.

"Because of the cultural side of it, you try to stick with your own kind," explains Faye. "It was a big deal; people were calling me names in the street."

That's why, when she fell pregnant, Faye couldn't tell anybody. "I was out of marriage, and the family would have gone mental, so we decided to move."

The couple came to

Cambridge, where her ex-partner's sister already lived, in 2008. But leaving all her friends and family behind was tougher than Faye could have imagined.

By EMMA HIGGINBOTHAM

eating, Faye began to pile on the pounds – and it wasn't just pregnancy weight.

"Before then, I was the type of person who could eat what I wanted and it would never affect me; I've always been a size 10. But I started comfort eating," she says.

"I would eat a whole family-sized gateau to myself, and I could eat five, six packets of crisps and three or four chocolate bars a day. Then there were takeaways, kebabs – disgusting, oily stuff – and that was all through boredom, comfort eating and depression."

With her mood sinking ever lower, Faye didn't know where to turn. "My partner was at work so he didn't know, and our relationship was quite... messy," she says, "so I couldn't talk to him about it. And I couldn't talk about it to my friends at home in Luton, because they didn't know I was pregnant!"

"I hid the pregnancy because of the shame it would bring to the family, because I wasn't married. I remember going to my brother's house wearing a big shawl, and he said 'You're putting a lot of weight on!' and I said 'Yeah, I've just been a bit lazy...'

"The only person who knew I was pregnant was my youngest sister; she was very supportive but at the time she was very young, she was only 20, and it's not very easy to Cambridge, where her ex-partner's sister already lived, in 2008. But leaving all her friends and family behind was tougher than Faye could have imagined.

"I didn't know anybody here, and I didn't really make any friends, because obviously when you're new you don't know which way to go," she recalls. "I felt very isolated and very, very low. I just moped around because there was nothing for me to do; a lot of the time I was just sitting watching TV."

Although she'd previously been a qualified gym instructor, and knew only too well the benefits of healthy express your feelings to someone who's not been through it themselves."

As her due date loomed, Faye found it increasingly difficult to cope. "Going up the stairs was a struggle because I'd be so out of breath. And when I was giving birth I struggled with pushing and breathing; it was too much for me because I was so big. I've never been big, so I suppose in a way my body couldn't handle it."

When her daughter Aoife was born, Faye's depression became even worse. "I just wanted to end my life. That's how bad it got. I got very, very close to a stage when I wanted to take an overdose."

Diagnosed with postnatal depression, Faye began to have counselling and medication, but she continued to pile on the pounds: at her heaviest, she tipped the scales at a hefty 15-and-a-half stone.

"I was struggling to even walk down to the mother and baby groups," she recalls. "I couldn't fit into any of my clothes; I was sticking to literally three sets of clothes that I could afford at the time, so it was a struggle, a complete struggle."

"And that was the realisation, seeing that picture, and thinking 'Right, I've got to do something about this. I can't stay like this.'"

When Aoife was three months old, Faye began by taking her out in the buggy for lots of walks, "and then when she turned six months I started going out running along the river. I picked up a second-hand sports buggy; it took me three months to save up for it, but when you have the determination you can do anything."

Three times a week, Faye would tuck Aoife up into the buggy and begin training: "I started off with 10 minutes," she recalls. "I was doing interval training – a minute's walk, a minute's jog – and at the time I could only do just under a mile. I couldn't manage anything else because I was breathless, and holding the buggy meant my arms were killing me! But I went on from there. Each week I would start increasing the timing by a minute, slowly, slowly..."

For Faye, running was a revelation: "It felt awesome!" she laughs. "The endorphin release was amazing, and when I came back I felt so refreshed. Running is like leaving your troubles behind – every mile I did, I left whatever was bothering me behind me."

By the time Aoife was 10 months old, Faye's relationship was officially over. But, with new-found confidence and plenty of friends made at mother and baby groups, she felt ready to take on anything. Within nine months she'd lost five-and-a-half stone, and began running more seriously – completing several 10ks and half marathons.

Two years ago, Faye – already a qualified personal trainer from her days working at gyms – decided to start her own personal training business. "I'd always had it in mind, but I didn't have the guts. But with the running, and being able to lose all that weight, I thought 'Wow, why don't I just start now?'"

The business is thriving, and Faye is sure this is because of the empathy she has with her clients. "Helping people is a big thing for me, I think because it's so close to my heart. For me, seeing someone achieve something – even if it's only a few pounds over a couple of weeks – it's so rewarding. Knowing the feeling myself, it's lovely."

Something else that's put a spring in Faye's step is her forthcoming wedding to partner Will who, ironically, she first met at her lowest ebb. "When I was pregnant he used to live opposite me, and he fitted our cooker for us," she recalls. "He was always friendly towards us, but then he moved a few streets away."

In January 2012, Faye spotted a familiar face when she took Aoife, now 5, to a soft play centre. "I looked over and thought oh, that's Will!" Also a single parent, the dad-of-one was there with his son Liam, now 7. "So I went over and we started talking, and I said 'Come round for a cup of tea, we'll catch up on things'."

"He came round after work, and Aoife just took to him straight away, jumping up and trying to play with him. We didn't really get the chance to talk! So then we started taking the kids to the park and soft play, and started getting to know each other a bit more. I don't even know when we made it official, it just kind of happened, and he asked me to marry him last September."

For Faye, life is good. Her family have all accepted Aoife, and she's really landed on her feet with Will. "He's my best friend... soul mate."

At home they all eat nutritiously, with plenty of salmon, grilled chicken, rice and fresh vegetables.

So what would Faye's advice be to someone who's struggling with their weight? "Take out one thing a week that's unhealthy, like biscuits, cake, chocolate, fried food, takeaways. Give yourself that seven-day period to take it out, and then start again the next week with something else. That's basically how I did it, one by one."

"And go for walks! Do a lot of walking, ditch the car if you can, get off the bus a few stops earlier, cycle, don't take lifts – use the stairs. It's easy, but people don't think of it because we're so used to modern-day life."

"Live the life you love, and love the life you live" – that's the motto I go by," says Faye, breaking into a wide grin. "You have to make the most of life. And if you can't laugh, what are you living for?"

Hailing from Cambridge and blurring the boundaries between jazz and almost everything else, the multi-instrumentalist and singer-songwriter is preparing for the launch of his debut album, First Mind. ELLA WALKER finds out more.

the GUIDE

Nick Mulvey

NICK Mulvey's speaking voice has a constant, restless edge of agitation to it.

His singing voice though is a richly-layered wonder that loops and grips and draws you in.

It's also just one strand of the Cambridge-born singer-songwriter's arsenal of talents and accolades. Now based in Dalston, East London, the multi-instrumentalist (he's a big fan of all things percussive), is the son of an opera singer and the grandson of a pianist, he's supported Laura Marling and is lined-up to tour with London Grammar in June; was longlisted for the BBC's Sound of 2014, has a degree in music from the School of Oriental and African Studies in London, and is just 26 years old.

Impressive. He also started out in Mercury Music Prize-nominated jazz group Portico Quartet.

When we speak Mulvey is travelling back from Cornwall where's he's been doing his first round of shows with a live band. His solo gigs to date have just involved him expertly picking at an acoustic guitar, but things are beginning to seriously escalate for the bearded musician.

Since releasing his second brilliant, melodic EP Fever to the Form in 2013, he's gone from echoey gigs in churches (he played the Emmanuel United Reform in Cambridge last November), to turning 150 people away at his last Cornish gig this weekend. He's even deemed cool enough to appear on the Made In Chelsea soundtrack, so there.

Laid back, although sometimes wavering from intense to disinterested, it's quite a leap considering, musically, he's notoriously difficult to pin down. "I always find it very difficult to describe my sound because it's quite limiting putting words on it," he says thoughtfully.

"From my end there's so much going on, so when someone says 'put it in a sentence' it's like 'arghh'!"

"I definitely don't have a word for it and to be honest, in this day and age when often reading about music is one click away from just listening to it, I don't think I need to put it in a sentence any more. People can just listen."

It's a good point. Throwing yourself into YouTube is also helpful when trying to make sense of his influences, which are just as tricky to track. There's the stuff he grew up with, "The Beatles, blues music or great songwriters like Van Morrison", then his teenage years, pumped with "the hip hop and drum & bass and raves I went to", submerged in years of electronica, followed by "modern classical music and people like Steve Reich and Philip Glass and minimalist music", while at the same time he was getting into "pop music from Zimbabwe or ceremonial music from Senegal or lots of Congolese music". He also got "really interested in Islamic music and Moroccan music and Egyptian music".

He sounds like he's all over the place – how do you distil those influences and find a common ground, unique to you? "Between all this different stuff," Mulvey muses. "What I like is where hypnotic and texture based repetitive music meets song and songwriting and song-singing."

The result, after pottering, tinkering and listening to all of that, is his debut full length record, First Mind, out on May 12.

He's been working on it for more than three years, with a lot of the guitar parts in particular "brewing" while he was still in Portico Quartet and playing the Hang – a steel drum type invention that you rarely see banded about.

He left the 2008 Mercury Music Prize-nominated jazz outfit, whose album Knee Deep in the North Sea lost out to Elbow's Seldom Seen Kid, in 2011.

"It was a change I needed and wanted to make," he explains matter of factly. "Even though there are some moments when I miss them, in general it was the right move, it all works out. It was the right move for them as well, they were happy for me to go."

Despite the months of hard grafting, and the pressure of being up on stage all alone without his former bandmates, Mulvey is more hyped than terrified by the prospect of the album release in just over a week's time.

"I'm not nervous, I'm really, really excited," he buzzes. "I'm very proud of it and I feel like I've done my best and when you feel like you've done your best then it liberates you from being too nervous because it's like, well, I'll get what I deserve."

Although he won't be back on home turf until the Cambridge Folk Festival this summer, and he's all caught up in this debut album business, Mulvey is still working on snippets of new material. "In a way I'm always writing, to be able to do it at all I think you have to do it a bit every day," he says. "I've got lots of new little bits and pieces coming through."

Hopefully he'll stay on equally impressive form.

LodeStar Festival

■ LodeStar Festival, Lode, Friday, August 29 - Sunday, August 31. Mid-level tickets currently £20 - £65 from (01223) 813318 or lodestarfestival.com

FAMILY-friendly summer music festival LodeStar has announced its first headline acts.

The Cambridge News-backed festival, which will run from Friday, August 29, until Sunday, August 31, is now in its third year and takes place on land in the village of Lode, priding itself on an varied line-up and entertainment for all ages.

The fantastic electronic duo Public Service Broadcasting are set to headline the Friday night, with the bright, bold and brash, purveyors of 60s styled electro pop FEMME headlining the Sunday (check out the single Fever Boy – it's quite wonderful), while Brooklyn-based quintet Lucius have also joined a line-up that so far looks like this:

Folk popstars Shake Shake Go, the sombrely mesmerising Lowpines, Berlin born Roxanne de Bastion and singer songwriters The Intermission Project.

LA husband and wife duo Imperial Mammoth, power trio Little Barrie who have worked with Primal Scream, The Chemical Brothers, Paul Weller and Morrissey.

Leeds seven-piece Submotion Orchestra, who blend electronica, jazz, dub and soul music, 80s new wavers Fickle Friends from Brighton and Grammy nominated singer/songwriter Leslie Mendelson.

Cambridge band Goldstar are Radio 1Extra favourites, while Manchester born indie rockers LVLS (LoVeLeS) can often be heard on BBC Radio 6 Music.

The Rocket Dolls take influence from blues and grunge, and dubbed the UK's Sigur Ros are The Shadow Project.

Early-bird tickets have sold out, but mid-level tickets are available, as are children's tickets (under-14s go free).

film of the week

FRANK (15, 95 mins)
IN the mid 1980s, musician Chris Sievey gave birth to Frank Sidebottom, a sharp-suited comic persona with a large papier-mache head, who was forever 35 years old and carried a hand-puppet sidekick named Little Frank.

This cartoonish alter-ego became ensconced in the Madchester music scene, made regular appearances on television and famously gave birth to Caroline Aherne's mock talk show host Mrs Merton on one of his radio shows.

Having faded into relative obscurity in the 1990s, Sidebottom made a series of comebacks and remained a cult favourite on the music and comedy scenes until Sievey's death in June 2010.

Journalist Jon Ronson's memories of the man and the myth provide an unlikely spark of inspiration for Frank, a musical comedy that is, to be frank, too self-consciously bonkers for its own good.

Ronson's script, co-written by Peter Straughan, taps into the appeal of other outsider musicians like Daniel Johnston and Captain Beefheart as it dramatises the efforts of a group of misfits to record an album.

Oscar nominee Michael Fassbender, who was terrifying in 12 Years A Slave, spends almost the entire film encased within a giant fibreglass noggin, concealing his emotions from us as well as the other cast.

The unlikely narrator though is Jon (Domhnall Gleeson), a musically-challenged, socially-awkward young man, who composes lyrics in his bedroom.

During a walk along the beachfront, he encounters a band called the Soronprfs, whose keyboardist has just suffered a mental breakdown.

"Can you play, C, F and G?" asks the band's manager Don (Scoot McNairy) and Jon is hastily enlisted to play a gig that night where he must gel seamlessly with theremin player Clara (Maggie Gyllenhaal), French bassist Baraque (Francois Civil), percussionist Nana (Carla Azar) and quixotic lead singer Frank (Fassbender).

The concert is a disaster but Jon keeps his place and joins the band on a rural Irish retreat to record an LP.

In this idyll, Jon discovers that Frank plays with madness every day and demands unachievable perfection from the band.

"Frank is, with all his issues, the 100 percent sanest cat I've ever met," coos Don. There are undeniable moments of fiery brilliance in Lenny Abrahamson's film including a sexually-charged encounter between Jon and Clara in a hot tub.

But these cannot compensate for the lunacy that Frank wears like a badge of honour. Every member of the band is dysfunctional to the point that we struggle to relate to them.

Gyllenhaal sinks her pearly whites into her role with gusto but Gleeson's delusions of musical grandeur wear thin well before the Soronprfs embark on an ill-fated trip to Texas to perform at the South by Southwest music festival.

Debunking the garden myths

IF you think ivy kills trees, watering scorches leaves and digging is always needed to control weeds, think again.

The Royal Horticultural Society is putting the record straight on a number of old wives' tales which have worked their way into the gardening psyche.

Here, Guy Barter, RHS chief horticultural adviser, busts open some of the most famous myths.

● Myth: Ivy kills trees

Guy says: "Ivy is thought to seldom kill trees of itself, but the presence of ivy indicates the very strong suspicion of root disease especially honey fungus doing serious harm to the host and allowing the ivy to flourish under the diminished canopy."

● Myth: Wild flowers are easy.

Guy says: "Gardens are often just too rich and fertile for wild flowers so that the desirable flowers fade away and rampant grasses take over. Mixes of annual flowers that resemble wild flowers on the other hand are easy and highly beneficial to many insects and a wiser choice for fertile gardens."

● Myth: Water drops on leaves cause burning from the sun's rays.

Guy says: "To focus sunlight, a water droplet needs to be above the leaf, and this can very occasionally happen with hairy-leaved plants (French beans for example) but in almost all cases scorching is not caused by wet leaves."

by Hannah Stephenson

Spraying leaves with pesticides or liquid fertiliser in sunny conditions can cause harm, however, as the water evaporates and the chemicals become concentrated, so can harm foliage."

● Myth: Ground cover plants save work.

Guy says: "Depending on the type of plant you use, ground cover plants can soon become so thick that laborious pruning and thinning is required. Sooner or later perennial weeds set up camp in ground cover and have to be winkled-out by hand as weedkillers and hoes cannot be used. Around trees and shrubs ground cover acts as a particularly pernicious 'weed' unless carefully controlled."

● Myth: Digging is required to control weeds.

Guy says: "The main reason for digging weeds is control, as burial of weeds is highly effective. But if weeds are controlled by other means such as mulches, herbicides or shallow hoeing, digging can be dispensed with. The only fly in this ointment is that sometimes weed control by other means can take longer and be harder work than digging, so it is not necessarily true for every site."

● Myth: Raised beds are best for growing crops.

Guy says: "Raised beds are a great idea for ill-drained clay soils in wet regions where they enhance drainage and make avoidance of compacting wet soil by trampling easier. But on other soils they enhance drainage to the point of drought (greatly increasing drought susceptibility) and impede flexibility in cropping as sprawling plants are hard to include in a strict defined bed. Therefore gardeners may do a lot of hard work at considerable expense for fewer crops."

● Myth: Moss is always a nuisance in gardens.

Guy says: "Moss is a sign that the soil is moist for prolonged periods. This happens when the soil is compacted, acidic or shaded. Moss has no roots and therefore cannot compete significantly with plant roots. In beds and borders it is a useful cover suppressing weed germination and limiting water loss. In lawns moss can indicate areas where perhaps grass should not be grown, under shade for example, where alternative plantings might be required. As moss cannot withstand treading, the presence of moss in lawns can indicate a lack of traffic and suggest that as access is not required then alternatives to lawns can be sought."

NOT GUILTY: Ivy is thought to seldom kill trees itself, but the presence of ivy indicates the very strong suspicion of root disease

MPG data is off the pace accuracy-wise

NEW car buyers who trust official, government-sanctioned fuel economy figures will pay an average of £1,000 more than they expect on fuel over a three-year period, according to What Car? True MPG test results.

That is because the official figures are achieved under laboratory conditions that can rarely be replicated in the real world.

What Car? True MPG data is scientifically calculated by experienced engineers, who drive test vehicles over a variety of real roads, including motorway, A and B roads and through towns and villages.

Since launching True MPG two years ago, What Car? has tested almost 400 cars in real-world conditions using cutting-edge test equipment, achieving economy figures that are an average of 19 per cent lower than the government figures.

What Car? editor Jim Holder said: "What Car?'s True MPG tests are the only reliable source of real-world fuel economy. With such a discrepancy between the official figures and our real-world data, it's clear that the official test processes need to be updated so that car buyers can place more trust in the figures they are being told.

"In the meantime, car dealers and the car industry aren't obliged to advise consumers about fuel economy beyond pointing at official statistics. However, we'd like to see more transparency at play, with dealers pointing to True MPG to give customers a realistic expectation of what fuel economy they can expect."

In a mystery shop exercise of 100 dealers covering eight major car brands, What Car? found that many dealer staff often either stuck rigidly to official data or avoided answering questions on fuel efficiency altogether.

Brand Realistic mpg advice provided:
Audi 0%

Toyota 25%
Volkswagen 25%
Nissan 25%
Peugeot 38%
Renault 38%
Ford 50%
Dacia 63%

While dealers are entitled to do this, this stance means that customers will have little idea that they could be around £1,000 worse off than they expect after owning their car for three years.

THE NEW NISSAN JUKE:
Competitive pricing

New Nissan Juke gets even funkier prior to June launch

NISSAN has announced pricing and specifications for the new Juke – the fresh-faced and fantastically funky model that will help the brand reinvent the compact crossover.

Arriving in dealerships in June, new Juke will introduce a wealth of exciting and innovative new technology and styling features, a new engine line-up and almost limitless personalisation options that allow buyers to build on the spec' of the now familiar Visia, Acenta, Acenta Premium and Tekna grades.

But despite the updated styling, raft of new equipment and myriad other enhancements including a 40 per cent increase in luggage capacity on 2WD version, Nissan has kept pricing competitive, giving the model an additional advantage. Prices now start at just £13,420 for the entry level 1.6 94PS in Visia guise.

THE Government is to extend the £5,000 grant scheme open to anyone who buys a car with plug-in electric power.

It is part of a £500 million move to encourage car owners – and city authorities – to take up the electric car baton and run with it.

The initiative will give cities a chance to win government funding to further the sales of electric cars in their areas, for example by allowing them to use bus lanes or park for free.

Of the total investment, £32 million is earmarked for infrastructure boosts to increase the number of charging points that are currently available.

The £5,000 incentive scheme, which can be used against cars like the Nissan Leaf and Renault Zoe, will continue until 2020, or until at least 50,000 grants have been awarded.

THE RENAULT ZOE: Attractive electric car available with attractive discount

Announcing the new initiative, Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg said: "Our economy is growing thanks to sectors like our thriving automotive industry that are helping repair and rebalance the economy, building a fairer society for this generation and the next.

"The UK has the potential to emerge as a world leader in the development, design and manufacture of green vehicles."

He went on: "Owning an electric car is no longer a dream or an inconvenience. Manufacturers are turning to this new technology to help motorists make their every day journeys green and clean.

"This major investment is there to make driving an electric car affordable, convenient and free from anxiety about the battery running out.

"But it's also about creating a culture change in our towns and cities so that driving a greener vehicle is a no-brainer for most drivers."

Disappointing start to DTM campaign

GARY Paffett endured a miserable start to his DTM campaign, finishing in a lowly 12th place in the opening race at Hockenheim.

It was a bad weekend all round for Paffett and his fellow Mercedes drivers as their best result went to Pascal Wehrlein, who came home in 11th place.

The lack of pace became apparent in qualifying, with Haverhill driver Paffett unable to progress beyond the second qualifying session.

He started the race in 14th and although he was able to move up a couple of places, he was unable to get his Euronics Mercedes AMG C-Coupe inside the points.

Paffett said: "After the winter tests it was impossible to know where we stood in relation to our opponents.

"Well now we've seen where we are so we've got to work hard on raising our game as fast as possible.

"It was tough, and starting from 14th on the grid didn't exactly put me in the best position for the race.

"We must continue to develop the car." BMW's Marco Wittmann took the race win.

Paffett, and Mercedes, will look to do much better when the series resumes in Oschersleben on May 18.

Off the pace: Gary Paffett struggled all weekend in his Euronics Mercedes AMG C-Coupe at Hockenheim.

Parkinson goal not enough for Rovers

LUKE Parkinson was on target for Haverhill Rovers as they went down 2-1 at home to Walsham-le-Willows in their final Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division game of the season.

Parkinson gave Rovers the edge after just three minutes by tapping in Ben Robinson's cross at the far post, but the visitors responded with two goals before the interval.

Boss Dean Greygoose said he was delighted with how his side had performed despite the result.

He said: "The only thing I've got to look at with our player identification with the future is in terms of the physical side.

"They were just bigger and physically stronger than us and both their goals came from crosses which we couldn't cope with.

"They were just better in both penalty boxes physically, but second half I still thought we played the better football.

"We still need to improve on our final-third play and our finishing, though, but I'm very pleased with the season and how we're progressing.

"I was gutted when I realised we couldn't win promotion, but I've got to take positives from what we've seen.

"Our main aim was to finish in the top six and we finished seventh, but that was still our highest league position for 25 years."

Greygoose said he was confident Rovers could use this term as a platform for a push to go further next season.

He said: "When all the budget was cut, all the players stayed and that showed me they're here because they want to play football and want to play for me as well.

"They can see what we're trying to do here in developing as a team and I'm really proud of my players this season.

"I've been trying some different things out lately, but we need to push on now."

Youngs can't prevent loss

LUKE Youngs' unbeaten century was in vain as Haverhill suffered a 21-run defeat away to Mildenhall in Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One.

Youngs hit 101 not out, but the visitors fell short of the target of 257 to win after winning the toss and electing to bowl on a green wicket.

Haverhill had Mildenhall on the ropes at 140 for 6, but a seventh-wicket stand of 90 took the home side towards a defendable total.

Youngs carried his bat for Haverhill in the reply, but tight bowling restricted them to 235 for 7.

Blackjacks in Dukes victory

HAVERHILL Blackjacks got their British Baseball Federation, A South Division off to a flying start with a 14-4 win at home to reigning champions Richmond Dukes.

Ryan Pflugh set the tone with a two-run double as Blackjacks went 3-0 up only for Richmond to reduce the deficit to 3-2 in the second.

But Haverhill added another four runs in the third and fourth innings with Daniel Becking among the scorers on his debut.

The fifth inning saw Dukes pull it back to 7-3, but Dylan Shephard scored as Haverhill notched two more runs. The visitors scored again at the top of the sixth, but it was all Blackjacks from there as they went on to win on the slaughter rule.
